

U.S. Agents Hunt Gems In Germany

$500,000 in Jewels Owned by Widow of Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II Gone Since June

Taken From Trunk
Part of Big Collection Lost After Smuggled to U. S. Zone

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Aug. 9 (AP)—U. S. Criminal Investigation Agents disclosed today they were hunting $500,000 worth of jewels belonging to the late widow of Kaiser Wilhelm II, which her son said vanished last June from a trunk in which he had hidden in the American sector of Berlin.

The agents said the owner of the gems—Princess Hermine von Schoenbach-Carolath, who died Thursday at Frankfurt-am-Main in the Russian zone—had spirited 95 pieces of jewelry worth $1,000,000 to her son, Prince Ferdinand, in the U. S. zone.

They said a young German woman friend of the prince "risked her neck" to smuggle the collection out of the Russian zone in a valise to Ferdinand, who was to convert the valuables into cash for investment in hotel and other interests in western Germany.

However, Ferdinand told investigators, before he could dispose of the jewels, 29 of the "best pieces," worth about $500,000, vanished from the trunk in which he had them locked.

Is Big Mystery
Investigators—attempting to unravel the mystery—have encountered a maze of intrigue involving fortune tellers, characters from the Berlin underworld and persons of half a dozen nationalities, including an unidentified American civilian in whose house Ferdinand—with his "million dollar trunk"—was a guest for a short period.

The 34-year-old Ferdinand, who resided part-time in the U. S. sector of Berlin, came to the attention of police earlier this year when it became known he had sold a necklace worth $1,200,000 Reichsmarks ($120,000 at the military rate of exchange).

This necklace, investigators were told, had been brought him by his mother by the woman emissary.

During June, the young woman told authorities, she made another trip to Frankfurt to visit her mother. This time she said she brought back the valise filled with jewels which she took to Ferdinand.

Ferdinand, she said, placed the gems in a large trunk given him by his American friend.

Looked Trunk, Kept Keys
"He looked the trunk," she said, "and made certain that he always carried on his person the two keys that the lock. They were on a single string."

Odom Is Over Half Through With His Flight for Record

Leaves Calcutta Field for Shanghai in Try to Cut Time for World Trip

Calcutta, Aug. 9 (AP)—William P. Odom, on a round-the-world flight for a new solo record, landed his two-engine biplane here at 12:10 p. m. (1:10 a. m. Eastern Standard Time) today and left for Shanghai an hour and 34 minutes later.

The flier, getting down from his plane with a smile at Dum Dum airport, said he had had good weather on the flight of some 1,400 miles across India from Karachi.

When he left here at 1:44 p. m. (2:44 a. m. Eastern Standard Time), he was 37 hours and 51 minutes and more than 10,000 miles out of Chicago—better than halfway along his intended 19,600-mile course.

Odom began the flight at Chicago at 12:53 p. m. E.S.T., Thursday. He made stops at Gander, Nfld., Thursday night and Paris and Cairo yesterday, and then put down at Karachi, India, on his way eastward.

He made the flight of about 2,200 miles from Cairo to Karachi in seven hours and 26 minutes and that of roughly 1,400 miles from Karachi to Calcutta in four hours and 25 minutes.

Odom landed at Karachi at 5:35 a. m. local time (7:05 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard Time), and departed at 6:45 a. m. (8:15 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard Time), after checking the weather and refueling.

The 27-year-old pilot, lean and six feet two, was out to beat the time of Wiley Post, who soloed around the world in 1933 in 186 hours.

He was flying the same converted A-26 bomber in which he, pennamite Milton Reynolds and T. Carroll Saltee girdled the globe.

Wants to Have 8th Grade Pupils Attend M.J.M. to Make Room for Kindergarten

Recent application of school trustees at East Kingston to send eighth grade students from there to the Myron J. Michael School, indexes a trend in other rural school districts near the city for similar relief of overcrowded classes, and extra burdens on teachers, it was learned today.

The East Kingston trustees, representing School District No. 7, Town of Ulster, have taken steps toward relieving congestion in its kindergarten, grade through the elimination of the eighth grade there. John Acker, president of the board of trustees, said today.

Other applications from rural districts near the city are expected to be considered by the Kingston Board of Education before the opening of the next school term, it was learned unofficially.

Three trustees of the East Kingston district have been assigned to consider the proposal. They have discussed their problem with Clarence A. Johnson, of Saugerties, district superintendent, and it was expected that a formal application to send eighth-grade pupils to Kingston will be considered at a forthcoming meeting of the local education board.

Elimination of the eighth grade at the East Kingston school, Mr. Acker said, will make room for the kindergarten pupils and will lighten the currently heavy burden of teachers at the school.

The proposal to eliminate the eighth grade at East Kingston was first discussed at a meeting of the trustees earlier in the summer, but definite action was not taken until recently, Mr. Acker said.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of Kingston schools, who has been out of the city, is not expected to return for several days, and members of the board of education are not authorized at this time to comment on the proposal.

It was learned, however, that the board has been considering the possibilities of similar applications from other districts, and that the facilities of the M.J.M. school are adequate for accommodating eighth grade pupils from rural districts near the city.

Kiser Held for Grand Jury on Burglary Charges

Plattekill Youth Is Charged With Entering Store and Also Taking an Automobile

A collision with a traffic stand-ard in Newburgh ended the alleged get-away ride of Edward Kiser, 17, of Plattekill, who was committed to the county jail Friday to await grand jury action on charges of third degree burglary and grand larceny, second degree, according to the state police.

Kiser, the police said, is charged with having entered the store of Patrick Flemming in Plattekill at about 9:30 p. m. Thursday. He is charged also with having taken the Flemming auto at about 11 p. m. on the same night for a ride out of town with $50, which, the police said, he took from the store owner's till.

Corp. Arthur Reilly of the state police arrested Kiser yesterday after the Newburgh police reported that the youth had struck the traffic stand.

Arraigned before Peace Justice Hobart Smalley at Clintondale yesterday, young Kiser waived examination and was held for the grand jury on the two charges and was brought to the county jail.

Corp. Reilly reported that the youth, who has no previous police record, is charged with breaking into the Plattekill store through a window.

Series of British Questions for Moscow

Lake Success, Aug. 9 (AP)—A series of British questions for Moscow to answer concerning Russian views on atomic control injected new life today into the atomic negotiations which have been stymied by persistent United States-Russian disagreements.

Without fanfare, the British delegation to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission announced last night that it was submitting promptly to Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, some questions which had been drawn up in London.

The British said they were ready to wait a long time for the answers. The questions presumably were drafted at top level in London and the British made it clear they expected replies from the top level in Moscow. They were said to deal with the vote, inspection and control procedures.

The Atomic Energy Commission is working on its second report to the U. N. Security Council, which must be submitted before the U. N. Assembly meeting Sept. 16.

Two women and two children were injured when the auto in which they were riding struck a tree in Shokan at 6 p. m. Friday while occupants of two other cars in collision at the scene of the accident, escaped uninjured, according to a sheriff's office report.

The injured were: Clara Kellerman, 43 Walnut street, who was treated at the Kingston Hospital for a concussion and a finger injury; Ruth Miller, 31, same address, who suffered a laceration of the left knee, contusions of the forehead and right forearm; Karen Miller, 2, and Glen Miller, 4, same address, who escaped with minor bruises.

The condition of Mrs. Kellerman, the only one reported hospitalized, was described as "good" at the hospital today. She was taken to the hospital in the W. N. Conner ambulance.

Harry Keator and Delbert Sapp, sheriff's deputies, reported that the accident happened when an auto operated by Harry E. Miller, 95 Harding avenue skidded as the driver applied his brakes. Two members of the crew were rescued by a police launch in the few minutes before the plane settled in 45 feet of water.

Dead were the pilot: Co-Pilot W. I. Zundel, 28; and H. H. Hickey, a mechanic. Zundel and Hickey were residents of New York. Rescued were two other mechanics, James J. Tili, who was uninjured, and Chester Ball, who suffered a fractured arm and ribs.

A spokesman for the airline said the plane, a flying laboratory used for radar tests, overshot the field while attempting the emergency landing. The pilot had reported that one engine had failed.

Standing by to raise the plane was a 40-ton navy salvage crane. Police said the plane originally settled on a shelf 14 feet under water but later slipped off to the bottom of the bay.

Government Almost Ends Filling New Era Labor Jobs

BY MAX HALL

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—The government today had about completed the job of lining up its top most labor officials for the uncertain new era ahead.

Five major federal labor appointments have been announced in little more than a week:

1. David A. Morse to be under-secretary of labor. Secretary Schweclenbach disclosed this selection yesterday, saying President Truman will make the appointment shortly. Morse will succeed Keen Johnson, resigned.

2. Cyrus S. Ching to be director of the new and independent Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (F.M.C.S.).

3. Robert N. Denham to fill the powerful job of general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

4. Abe Murdock and J. Copeland Gray to be new members of the N.L.R.B.

under the act, including that of receiving financial reports and other information from unions.

(Unions which want to use the machinery of the National Labor Relations Board must file with the Labor Department information on finances, officers' salaries, dues, initiation fees, etc.)

Schweclenbach yesterday turned down a petition from a group of newsmen asking that this information be available to the press.

He said he had concluded that Congress meant for the information to be kept from the public. However, he said any union member who wants to see the information filed by his local or international union can do so by coming to the Labor Department in person.

Significantly, all five of the big appointments are temporary. They must be approved by the Republican-controlled Senate when it meets in January. By that time G.O.P. Senate leaders may have a good idea whether they want to oppose any of the appointees.

Morse, a 40-year-old lawyer from New York City, was the N.L.R.B. general counsel from September, 1945, until a year ago.

Plane Designer on Hand to Discuss Contracts for $40,000,000 in War Planes

Publicist Missing

Subpoena Is Still Out for Meyer Who Faded Out of Hearing

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Answers to a few $164,000 questions were sought today from Howard Hughes by Senate investigators who have heard him tell of spending millions in building planes.

The Senate War Investigating Subcommittee has been told by Johnny Meyer, Hughes' publicist, that Meyer spent the $164,000 in entertaining wartime officials who might have been interested in the Hollywood millionaire's aircraft contracts.

But the subcommittee decided it wants to hear from Hughes how the money was spent.

Meyer, central figure in earlier spy testimony, however, a transcontinental road of party-giving, still was officially missing. Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) of the subcommittee issued a subpoena for him when Meyer failed to appear at yesterday's hearing.

But Hughes, self-styled "perfectionist" designer of airplanes and globe-girdling airman, was on hand. The subcommittee is inquiring into $40,000,000 of wartime plane contracts which the government awarded to him.

Feud with Brewster Ends

As far as the subcommittee is concerned, the feud between Hughes and Senator Brewster (R-Me.), chairman of the full War Investigating Committee, was officially ended. But Brewster took the air last night to assert that Hughes "moved heaven and earth" to stop the Senate investigation into his plane contracts.

In a radio interview (WOL-Mutual), Brewster said Hughes' attorneys "even tried to get" Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, "to bring pressure upon me to stop the case."

Brewster said that Hughes "set out to destroy my usefulness" as the chairman of the committee and as a member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

As the subcommittee prepared to end its second week of hearings, Ferguson told a reporter he plans to direct the questioning today toward the F-11 photographic plane.

Hughes received a $22,000,000 contract for the plane, converted to a reconnaissance craft.

Want to Hear Hughes

"We want to know from Hughes himself how he got the contract," Ferguson said. "We want to know how Meyer's expense accounts—in fact all about all angles of this contract," the Michigan senator said.

Hughes was expected to be asked about records taken from the files of his personal bank account. They were obtained by the committee yesterday under subpoena when Hughes said he wouldn't deliver all of his private papers "to get scattered all around here and lost."

Ferguson indicated that the

Hanley Is Headed West To Meet G.O.P. Leaders

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley heads westward again on Aug. 20, with the announced expectation of seeing "some Republican leaders" in the course of a 12-day trip.

He will speak in Kansas City and Iowa, a state where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey made no stop last month on his 6,500-mile western excursion.

Hanley returned from a speaking tour in the midwest and southwest last spring with the report that he believed Dewey was the current Republican choice there for the 1948 presidential nomination.

The lieutenant governor said last night that he had no definite engagements with politicians but that he undoubtedly would "talk to some Republican leaders."

On Aug. 24 in Kansas City he will address the national convention of the United Spanish War Veterans, of which he is a past national commander. He is chairman of the convention's resolutions committee.

His schedule calls for speeches in Centerville and Ottumwa, Iowa, and he may visit Des Moines, and Muscatine, where he once lived. He will return to Albany Sept. 1.

When Hanley finished his spring tour he said he thought Dewey would win on "an early ballot" if the G.O.P. presidential nominating convention were held then.

No U.S. Movies for Britain In Retaliation Against Tax

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Consternation among both movie-goers and leaders of the film industry on both sides of the Atlantic followed today in the wake of the American industry's decision to suspend immediately the export of all feature pictures and short subjects to Britain.

The ban is in retaliation for the new British tax which the industry estimates would take away 75 per cent of the earnings of American films shown in British theaters.

The suspension was announced yesterday by Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, after a three-hour closed meeting here of 50 leaders of the industry.

The tax was announced by Great Britain as a means of helping combat that country's dollar shortage, and was described by Johnston in a statement as a measure which "in effect strangles American film shipments to England."

"If the British do not want American pictures that's one thing," Johnston said. "If they do, they shouldn't expect to get a dollar's worth of films for a quarter."

Johnston said the suspension

Blasted Off Tracks

Jerusalem, Aug. 9 (AP)—The crack "Egypt Express" bound from Cairo to Haifa with British troops returning from leave was blasted off the tracks by a mine at Wilhelmsburg, near Lydda, today, an official report said. The engineer and fireman were buried beneath the debris. The army said, however, that no military casualties resulted. The mine, which the official announcement attributed to the Jewish underground, blew four coaches off the tracks.

Batavia, Java, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Dutch army said today that 300 armed Indonesian Republicans had attacked a Dutch outpost near Soerabaja, East Java, and others had attempted infiltrations elsewhere in Java despite a cease-fire order which went into effect last Monday night. The Dutch commando said the attack in the Soerabaja area—at Tandjoen-koelon—was repulsed and that the Indonesians suffered losses.

RUMMY IN RIO

Rio de Janeiro has long had the reputation of being a wide-open town, where gambling and other vices have flourished without hindrance. But, according to Ernie Hill, the reform forces are not at work and the city is being cleaned up.

With typical Latin passion, a large group of elderly women after their complaints were ignored by the police set out to clean out certain districts in person. A colorful battle ensued between the two sets of women. No report is given as to who won. But the most sweeping reform is that which will make it illegal to play Brazilian rummy, or pif-paf, as they call it, even in private homes. This game, which resembles gin rummy, has reached a great height of popularity since the gambling casinos were closed a year ago by presidential decree.

It may be predicted with some certainty that this law will be broken frequently and with enthusiasm. It is one thing to close casinos, and quite another to kibitz card games in private homes. Without doubt, many citizens who have never played rummy will now take up the game, and the police will be kept very busy hauling in the culprits.

Politics is probably this nation's chief sport, and it functions incessantly year in and year out. It is overdone, but on the whole it serves the useful purpose of finding able public servants, putting them in useful places and keeping the public eyes and ears interested in their operations.

The Abraham Lincoln papers just released under the will of his son Robert may, according to one suggestion, have been kept under lock and key because they contained so many unkind letters sent to the President, letters which their authors must have later regretted writing.

CHILDREN IN PALESTINE

While controversy rages around them and the air is filled with threats and counter-threats, hundreds of refugee children are happy and safe in 172 training centers in Palestine.

All are orphans, many being lone survivors of large families. All have backgrounds of horror, starvation and cruelty. In two years they have been changed from warped, cringing, fear-poisoned little wrecks to happy, normal children. This has been done by encouraging them to express their fears, to tell of their dreadful experiences and to illustrate them with drawings and paintings. Thus cleansed of their dreadful thoughts they were free to begin anew, and with the aid of such activities as swimming, dancing, music, and handicrafts, they have built up healthy personalities and strong bodies. This project is being carried out by the Zionist-sponsored "Onward Youth Movement."

Similar work may be needed elsewhere among refugees. Such children may grow up to be good citizens, but much will need to be done in the way of mental hygiene. They must be taught to have faith in human nature and given a child's rightful heritage of happy-work and play.

Don't waste food! There are severe shortages in many foreign countries, that may last as much as three years.

The troubles that kids get into is beyond understanding, but that's the way they learn things.

You ain't seen nothing yet. Sports jackets and painted ties have been making the male of the species beautiful or at least outwardly gay. Now it appears that men are going in for more and larger jewelry. Which recalls the reply of the man with a huge sunburst in his necktie. Asked if it were a genuine diamond, he said, "If it ain't, I've been cheated out of 50 cents."

TANGLEWOOD

It was not a fight between Joe Louis and some contender; it was not the Army-Notre Dame game; it was not the World Series. It was not a mob that had gathered to see some obscene novelty. It was Serge Koussevitzky directing the Boston Symphony in the Beethoven Symphonies in succession from the First to the Ninth.

Twenty-four thousand Americans, socialites in boxes, students on rugs and blankets bringing their lunch with them, came from every state to hear the Fifth on a Saturday night in the Berkshire hills, far from any big city. This was no accidental response to "What shall we do tonight?" It took a great effort for many of these visitors to come to our green hills where Longfellow, Bryant, Hawthorne and a century of brilliant Americans found their inspiration. The music festival has outgrown the hotels and boarding houses, the telephone system, the roads. The Berkshires remain primitive—in spots primeval. But the Americans who love music come. I met a friend who drove up that Saturday night—listened—and drove back to New York—an eight-hour trip for an hour of Beethoven.

The Ninth was done on a Tuesday night in mid-summer and the audience was enormous, perhaps as many as 12,000. A chorus of 250 young music students, between the ages of 18 and 22, sang as Beethoven's chorals had never been sung before. When Koussevitzky's baton fell on the last note, the audience was on its feet cheering, shouting, applauding, waving. The old man—73 this year—stood there facing mature America.

And that is what Tanglewood means. It is something much more than good music brilliantly executed. Most of that huge assembly were not professional musicians. Most of them can not recognize a duff by the French horn or a missed note by a pianist. Most of them have never—or could never—read Schiller's "Ode to Joy" in the original. Few of them can explain the growth of Beethoven's personality from the First to the Ninth.

But all of them, voluntarily, with a conscious effort, in accordance with their means, satisfied a yearning for perfection. As I milled in the crowd, during the intermissions, it came upon me more and more that this was a young audience, that many thousands were G.I.'s and their girls, such as decades ago might have gone tooney Island or Brighton Beach or some such place. They are young in years but their tastes have matured. The taste of the nation has matured. The culture of the American people has been elevated from the trivialities of the moment to the eternal humanities.

For Tanglewood is but one expression of this cultural upsurge among our people. What other nation can speak of at least 35 symphonic groups spread from coast to coast, playing not only to the elite but to great masses as in the Hollywood Bowl, the Robin Hood Ball concerts in Philadelphia, the Stadium Concerts in New York and in so many other cities that it is hard to keep them all in mind? And over the radio, the Philharmonic, the N.B.C. and the Detroit Symphonies, week after week, enrich a nation with their contributions to American culture.

I speak here only of music, for at the moment it is music that has captured the imagination of American youth. This lust for a better life will pour itself into poetry, art, the dance and in time even the theatre will respond to its stimulus. We are on the upgrade.

And what is so glorious about it is the utter freedom of participation. No government subsidizes any part in any of this. No government subsidizes, controls, lays down rules and regulations. No government official decides what shall or shall not be played, who is to perform, who is to listen. A free people choose between Beethoven and Irving Berlin and choose by taste. Tanglewood, as every noteworthy cultural development in the United States, is a voluntary product of a free people who ask nothing but the unimpeded right to pursue their own courses without interference by the State. I listened to Beethoven's Ninth at Tanglewood with that as a constant overtone.

FOOD AND FITNESS

One of my duties as camp medical officer for the day was to inspect the food of the different units and ask the men if there were any complaints. As the meat, vegetables, and fruits were of high quality, every unit receiving the same foods, any complaint was not of the quality served but in the manner of its preparation and the manner in which it was served.

Fortunately, during World War II cooks did not just happen, were not given the job of cooking because they said they were cooks or could cook. Every cook was made to attend a class in cooking for a certain period. This meant that good food was cooked in a thorough manner and also served in an attractive manner.

There has always been the question as to why those who go to a tropical climate to live either as soldiers or sailors, seem to lose their health and strength. Among those who have made the statement that the tropics lower physical fitness are three well-known writers, Kipling, Conrad and Maugham.

In an editorial, "Tropical Deterioration," in the "Journal of the American Medical Association," is a report of two separate medical surveys of troops living and fighting in tropical regions. One survey was made by Canadian physicians in India and Burma where they surveyed Indian troops only, and the other by United States physicians in the south, central and western Pacific who studied troops, white and colored.

Both groups of physicians collected systematic information on feeding policies and practices, on the diet of individual soldiers, on health as shown by medical histories and physical examinations, and on physical fitness. The findings of these two groups working in tropical climates was compared with those obtained by similar tests in North America.

What were the findings as to health of individuals getting same food in North America and in the tropics?

In times of stress under same food conditions men react the same in hot and cool climates. It was found, as it was found more than 20 years ago, that foods similar to those the soldier usually eats in civilian life, giving enough food, and cooking and serving food in an attractive manner, meant good health anywhere.

maid in Beverley Hills, Cal., is one example.

She who had scrubbed and polished in other people's houses up to her fifty-second year was found after a long search. She discovered she was an heiress awaiting a fortune of $250,000, left for her by a nice gentleman she had just met casually in a movie theatre. Their friendship was "quite proper," she said, but it was certainly unusual.

There are doubtless as many romances floating around nowadays as there ever were in the days of the prolific O. Henry.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—They should have roped off Nagasaki without restoration and saved it for posterity.

This Japanese port city is where General U. S. Grant planted a banyan tree in 1873. But two years ago today Nagasaki was visited by an even more enduring American symbol—the atom bomb.

General Grant's banyan tree is gone now, and so is a good portion of Nagasaki. What is left would make a fine world monument for the new atomic age. It would be good idea also to have guided tours through the ruins for every representative at the United Nations and the diplomats of every country on the globe.

I can't think of a better way to indoctrinate statesmen in the advantages of peace. The Japanese survivors in Nagasaki were already being indoctrinated.

When I toured the city shortly after it entered the atom's hail of fame, the devastated zone resembled a vast junk yard swept by fire.

The scorched ruins stretched across the level land and the neighboring hills, and the entire area looked as if it had been smashed by a single terrible hammer of fire. And that is pretty much what an exploding atom bomb is like.

In Europe I had seen many cities more badly damaged by repeated air raids. But it gave a creepy feeling of awe to realize that the debris of Nagasaki had been created in a single terrible blow. This feeling of awe at the power of the Atom bomb has never left me, and I think that anyone who goes to Hiroshima or Nagasaki shares it. That's why the big people of the world who make the decisions that count should see these civic bubbles. It would be a very salutary experience.

I walked through the charred new concrete hospital. It had withstood the blast very well.

But every patient, every nurse and every doctor inside the hospital was killed. Said Capt. Herbert Horne, Jr., an American medical officer stationed there.

He pointed out one thing about the atom bomb that many people have overlooked—that it is truly a "death ray." Horne estimated that 30,000 persons were seared to death in ten seconds and that another 30,000 to 40,000 died within the next six weeks—lingering deaths from gamma ray burns that destroy blood cell building tissue in the bone marrow and burn intestines so severely no food can be digested.

Another impressive thing about the bomb is its capriciousness. Many of the hospital's glass windows had liquefied from the intense heat. Yet a few yards from the building lay shattered boards and twisted mattresses that showed no burns.

was the top floor of the hospital was the room stacked high with medical records. The blast had instantaneously converted them from ordinary paper into a greasy gray powder. Such a temperature is above the power of the ordinary mind to comprehend.

With the world's diplomats would go to that Nagasaki hospital and let that powdered paper sift slowly through their fingers.

Lifelines

C. R. DOUGLAS

Never before was an age so important to the years to follow as the one in which we now live. Each of us has a bigger share of the weight of the world on his shoulders, and most of us see at a glance the vast amount of work to be done before we rise successfully above post-war chaos.

We are, or should be, much more concerned with our domestic problems and with international affairs, than we have ever been before, and we certainly have more of a duty than ever to be intelligently watchful of national and international economic and political trends.

We owe ourselves, as individuals and as members of a society working toward what we hope to be a better world, every effective measure which an individual can contribute to the post-war fight for peace.

Every step taken in the United Nations then is as of much concern to citizens of all other nations as it is to the one charged directly with representing those nations, and the pressure of public opinion should be exerted wherever and whenever it is found necessary.

This same watchfulness is both our heritage and duty as citizens, and we must be as observant of trends in the smallest as well as the largest unit of government.

It certainly seems that every man and woman on the earth owes himself and herself the best possible intelligent interest in the idea that no man or man-made where should be allowed to lead the world into another war, this time as the experts predict, for the annihilation of humanity itself.

We are as immediately charged with the adjustment of social, political and economic problems at home, and here again public opinion can move the wheels a lot faster than they have moved during the first two post-war years.

Shortages of materials essential to what we consider normal living in the nation are still with us and the black market has conditions in its favor for unscrupulous profiteering. Our governments locally and nationally have seldom, if ever, had more problems to unravel, and it is up to us to demand the utmost in our favor during the unravelling.

It is an age of mounting confusion, and it is a lucky mind which sees its way clear. It is never again an age for development of private interests at the expense of great masses, and we are in the midst of all kinds of political upheavals and directions of understanding. Our personal affairs which should be watched for their effects abroad so that we shall know them better at home.

Essay on Cats

(Read this aloud for best results)

Cats and people are funny animals. Cats have four paws and only one ma. People have forefathers and only one mother. When a cat smells a rat he gets excited and a lot of people carry tales too. All cats have fur coats. Some people have fur coats and the ones who don't have fur coats say cat-ty things about the ones who have them.

A woman likes to marry a man who feels that he is born to command, just to prove to him that he wasn't.

Proud Poet—Hoy, my man, give me the price for a crust of bread.

Rich Croesus—Bent it.

Proud Poet—If I had your dough I wouldn't mind a crust.

Rich Croesus—And if I had your crust I'd make dough with it.

A school principal says scholars learn more from the teacher who gains their confidence, says the Kitchener Ontario, Canada, Record. It's better than using a ruler to make them smart.

Let us lie back and enjoy a great war that now rages, between famed child psychologists who were rocked by their mothers when they bawled, and others who were frustrated into their present eminence.

For many years I have been corresponding with Frank E.
Lyons of Kingston, Jamaica, but it was only recently that I had the pleasure of meeting him in person. There is a good deal of bridge played in Jamaica.
Last year a Jamaica team participated in the national championships tournament at Hollywood, Fla., and that team is now known as the Hollywood Four.
Mr. Lyons expressed the hope that a U. S. team will participate in one of the Jamaica tournaments before long.

In discussing today's hand, Lyons remarked that sometimes we can make the opponents help us to play a hand well. He won the opening club lead in dummy and ruffed the club in his own hand.
Then he took one round of hearts and led the nine of spades.
East won this with the king and made a nice return when he came back with the nine of diamonds.
Lyons put on the queen, forcing West's ace.
West found himself in a bad spot at this point. He could lead a diamond—right into declarer's king-ten—or lead a club, which would give declarer a stiff and a ruff.
He chose the only other course and cashed the ace of spades, but when he continued with the queen, Lyons ruffed, went over to dummy with a trump, ruffed another spade, re-entered dummy with the king of hearts, and discarded his ten of diamonds on dummy's fifth spade.
